Grants of up to $3.5 million will be awarded to regional entities through a competitive application process for things like convention centers, travel infrastructure, public or nonprofit attractions, and more.

GREEN BAY — Gov. Tony Evers announced on Tuesday that $10 million of American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) funds will be used to provide grants to local governments and tourism-entity nonprofits for tourism-related investment projects that help promote, maintain, or bolster Wisconsin's tourism industry and that have a substantial capital component. Grants of up to $3.5 million will be awarded to regional entities through a competitive application process to eligible infrastructure projects such as convention centers, travel infrastructure, public or nonprofit attractions, and more.

“Wisconsin's tourism industry was one of the hardest hit throughout the coronavirus pandemic, but these folks are innovative, dedicated, and resilient, and we're working to make sure our tourism industry can bounce back from this pandemic,” said Gov. Evers. “These investments in tourism infrastructure are not only critical to ensuring that recovery continues, but that our investments help build a strong future for the industry to continue to grow.”

Despite the pandemic, Wisconsin's tourism industry supported more than 157,000 jobs across the state and had a $17.3 billion impact on the state economy in 2020. So far in 2021, the industry is seeing recovery above 2020 numbers as travelers make up for missed vacations while reconnecting with friends and family.

“In 2021, people are traveling more and staying longer, and this ongoing commitment to Wisconsin tourism will ensure the industry continues to bounce back stronger and will make Wisconsin a stand-out destination for future visitors ready to discover the unexpected," said Department of Tourism interim Secretary Anne Sayers.

These investments are being funded by the ARPA and will be administered by the Wisconsin Department of Administration (DOA).

"Today's announcement reiterates Gov. Evers' priority of a rapid and complete recovery of the tourism sector," said DOA Secretary Joel Brennan. "We are excited about the opportunities across the state to help our tourism industry shine, so we can continue to create memories for families and visitors alike for years to come."

Gov. Evers' announcement Tuesday is a continuation of the governor's efforts to support the tourism industry's recovery and rebound from the coronavirus pandemic.
