Leading voice for victims of domestic abuse in Wisconsin says violence at home may often spill over to larger community.

Madison – Following the violence in Waukesha over the weekend, End Domestic Abuse Wisconsin (End Abuse) has expressed grief for those impacted by this tragic event, and calls attention to the connection between domestic abuse and acts of mass violence.

“We are mourning for the lives lost and for the loved ones who will be forever impacted by this tragedy,” said End Abuse Executive Director Monique Minkens. “This has been a particularly impactful and heavy week for our state, and our attention is with all who are in shock, mourning, and grief – especially victims and survivors of domestic violence who are finding this time to be particularly challenging as details have emerged about the suspect having a history of domestic abuse.”
