President Biden has requested about $60 billion in additional Ukraine support as part of a more than $100 billion supplemental spending package that has hit multiple hurdles in Congress.

WASHINGTON - Ukraine's war-time leader Volodymyr Zelensky is in Washington D.C. on Tuesday in a last-ditch effort to salvage Ukraine aid talks ahead of the winter holiday recess.

He faces an uphill climb. GOP senators on Monday said any breakthrough this week appeared unlikely, effectively punting the talk to January.
