MADISON - The following is the statement of Democratic Party of Wisconsin Chair Martha Laning on the news that Conservative Supreme Court Justice Michael Gableman will reportedly not seek a second term on the state's highest court:

"After the success progressives had in the 2017 spring elections it is no surprise that Justice Michael Gableman has reportedly decided to not run for re-election next year.

"In April's spring elections, 74 percent of the candidates the Democratic Party worked with won their elections - including Tony Evers' massive statewide victory.

"Powered by the success of local organizing and the strength of grassroots groups around the state, Democrats are turning on the off-year and six months into the year conservative candidates are clearly becoming intimidated by the strength of our operation.

"It is great to see candidates stepping up to run for the Supreme Court who will restore fairness and impartiality to the high court." □
