We discuss the lame duck session fall out, the latest on the early voting lawsuit, Tony Evers' first cabinet appointments and a new audit revealing WEDC plans to pay for Foxconn jobs not located in Wisconsin.

MILWAUKEE - We close out 2018 by contrasting the legacies of House Speaker Paul Ryan and Gov. Scott Walker as they prepare to leave office in early January. We review the lame duck session fall out, including the latest on the motion filed in Citizen Action's early voting lawsuit with One WI Now to block voting restrictions. We also discuss Tony Evers' first cabinet appointments and a new audit revealing WEDC plans to pay for Foxconn jobs not located in Wisconsin.
