

Wisconsin Democrats, Small Business Owner hold press conference on Capitol steps one year after President Trump called for a boycott of Wisconsin-based firm.

MADISON, WI - On Monday, at 11:30 AM at the State St Entrance of the Capitol Building, DPW Chair Ben Wikler, State Senator Janis Ringhand, and cheesemaker and small business owner Anna Landmark will remind voters that a year after President Trump called for a boycott of Wisconsin-based Harley Davidson, he's broken his promise to bring jobs back and his tax-scam has hurt everyday Wisconsinites. In addition, they will highlight how his ongoing and chaotic trade war is punishing Wisconsin's farmers, manufacturers, businesses, and families.

WHAT: Press conference highlighting that one year after Trump's call to boycott Wisconsin-based Harley Davidson he has broken his promise to bring jobs back to Wisconsin and how his chaotic trade war is hurting Wisconsin farmers, manufacturers, businesses, and families.

WHO: DPW Chair Ben Wikler, State Senator Janis Ringhand, Cheesemaker and Small Business Owner Anna Landmark.

WHEN: Today, 11:30 AM

WHERE: State St. Entrance to the Capitol Building (If it is raining the event will be held at the Democratic Party of Wisconsin's Headquarters located at 15 N Pinckney St, Madison WI)