Running in the 5th Congressional District, formerly held by long-time Republican congressman Jim Sensenbrenner, Democrat wants to be a representative that listens.

Brookfield, WI – For Democrat Tom Palzewicz, his vision of going to Washington as the representative of Wisconsin’s Fifth District would not be about achieving political status, it would be all about servant leadership-- working and fighting for all of the people in the 5th District.

Palzewicz, a former Vice President of US Bank Mortgage Corporation, serves business leaders in southeastern Wisconsin by advising on critical issues and strategies. He believes in putting others ahead of himself to achieve the common good. His approach to politics is reflective of the kind of service of the political leaders who created this country of the late 18th Century.

“Look at the men who sacrificed their own personal gain to establish a new democracy in America,” said Palzewicz. “For them it was all about vision, a new vision for their new country. We flippantly talk about the founding fathers, but in truth they left their homes and families, for no personal gain, to serve. Men like John Adams, who left his farm in Massachusetts serve in the Continental Congress and become a driving force in the creation of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution.”
