MILWAUKEE - We welcome Nicole Safar from Planned Parenthood Advocates of Wisconsin to discuss Scott Walker's new effort to rush state legislation restricting abortions after 20 weeks in order to benefit his presidential aspirations.

Jen Epps-Addison reviews the large mobilization of youth and fast food workers in Madison this week seeking justice for Tony Robinson while making connections to the struggle for economic justice. We also review news that Gov. Walker's failed jobs agency, WEDC, is still not following the law, Affordable Care Act enrollment in Wisconsin reaches 207,346, and "Right to Work" is signed at anti-union multinational corporation in front of all white crowd, free of pesky workers who were not allowed to attend.
