

Habitat for Humanity and ReStore Volunteer Information Session

Written by Habitat for Humanity
Tuesday, 16 September 2014 10:29 -

GREEN BAY - Didn't make it to their other volunteer information session? No problem! The Greater Green Bay Habitat for Humanity and ReStore are hosting another volunteer information session in order to teach the community the various ways you can help Habitat for Humanity. It is the new, no strings attached, way for you to find the perfect volunteer opportunity that aligns with your talents and interests. Many people aren't aware that there are other opportunities besides being on a build site. There are several ways to volunteer: including ReStore opportunities, preparing meals for the build sites and serving on various committees.

When: Wednesday, September 17th at 11:30 am-12:15 pm.

Location: Broadview YMCA (380 Broadview Dr., Green Bay, WI 54301)

We encourage you to bring your friends. Learn more about the sessions here. All RSVPs can be sent to Rachel Clement, Volunteer Coordinator, at volunteer@greenbayhabitat.org or (920) 593-5785. Find out how easy it is to become a volunteer!