WASHINGTON, DC - The committee investigating the Jan. 6 riot released 11 new subpoenas Wednesday night, targeting the spokesperson for former President Trump's campaign and a host of other individuals involved in planning the rally where he spoke shortly before his supporters attacked the Capitol.

The committee is seeking documents and testimony from Katrina Pierson, a spokesperson for Trump's 2016 campaign, as well as Maggie Mulvaney, a niece of former acting White House Chief of Staff Mick Mulvaney.
