Shared revenue funding, which is used to fund police, firefighters, and other critical aspects of public safety, have been starved for years by Republican State Legislatures.

MADISON, Wis. — Yesterday, Governor Tony Evers announced an additional $20 million investment for public safety in Milwaukee County. Earlier this week, the governor also announced \$20 million to support Wisconsin EMS providers around the state.

This additional funding follows Gov. Evers' previous investments of over $100 million toward crime prevention, violence interruption and public health interventions, community safety efforts, and ensuring local law enforcement agencies have the resources to keep their communities safe.

For years, Republicans in the state legislature have starved our communities of shared revenue funding, which is used to fund police, firefighters, and other critical aspects of public safety.
