Matt Rothschild supports a bill that would bring nonpartisan redistricting to Wisconsin.

MADISON - Just last week, the Green County Board voted overwhelmingly to support a nonpartisan model for drawing our political maps in Wisconsin. It's time to end gerrymandering in Wisconsin, and momentum is on our side!

Green County became the 14th county this year alone to pass such a resolution , and 21 counties in total are now on board—see the full list here

If your county is not on the list and you want to put it there, please use this handy guide from our friends at Citizen Action Organizing Cooperative:

 Guide to Passing a County Resolution on Fair Maps

A good contact person is Anna Dvorak at Citizen Action of Wisconsin. Here's her email: anna. dvorak@citizenactionwi.org
. Another good contact person is Hans Breitenmoser, a Lincoln County supervisor who helped get the ball rolling this year:
breitenmoser.jr@gmail.com

One other thing you could do is call your legislators and urge them to support a bill that would bring nonpartisan redistricting to Wisconsin. It's been introduced by Sen. Dave Hansen and Rep. Don Vruwink (SB13 / AB44). You can contact your legislators by calling 1-800-362-9472.

Thanks for joining the Fair Maps Movement (#FairMaps)!
